LUTHERANS PREPARING FOR SYNOD CONVENTION

Making Arrangements Now for Entertaining Delegates.

NOTED SPEAKERS TO COME

Theologian From German College to Make Address at One of Sessions.

Rev. C. E. Frontz, pastor of Christ Lutheran church and his congregation are busy at the present time preparing for the annual convention of the Pittsburg Synod of the General Synod of the Lutheran church in the United States to be held in Charleroi from October 10 to October 14. The means of entertainment for the 150 or more delegates is a matter now being arranged. A number of members of other churches than the Lutheran have agreed to assist in entertaining the delegates, many of whom will be ministers.

Special meetings will be held each night, and Wednesday and Thursday meetings will be special features. At the Wednesday evening session, which is to be in the interests of foreign missions, Rev. John Aberly, D. D., a missionary to India, now on a furlough, will speak.

The Thursday evening meeting will be featured by the ordination of three young men into the ministry. Education will be the general topic on this night.

An important matter to be settled during the business session is the election of delegates from the Pittsburg Synod to the General Synod convention in Washington, D. C., next May. This Synod meets bi-annually and the Pittsburg district is entitled to a representation of eight clergymen and eight laymen.

Word has been received by Rev. Frontz, who is on the program committee, that Rev. Christen Jensen, head of a Theological school in Breckinridge, Germany, will speak. Rev. Jensen is touring America at the present time and will be here as one of the chief speakers of the entire convention.

Gets Appointment as Captain of "Chicago"

Former Lieutenant Rae Furlong Receives Merited Promotion.

More honor has been bestowed upon W. Rae Furlong, the Roscoe young man who recently was given the rank of lieutenant in the United States Navy, in the appointment as captain of the "Chicago," one of the large new naval vessels. Mr. Furlong who, with his bride of a few weeks, has been visiting friends in Roscoe and vicinity received his commission last week, and is to report on Monday at Boston, Mass., where he will be stationed this winter. Yesterday Capt. and Mrs. Furlong were in Charleroi the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Piper of Fifth street.

PENNANT WINNERS HONORED

Ladies of the Episcopal Church Entertain for Team.

MANY GOOD TOASTS GIVEN

A pleasing social event of the week was the reception and banquet tendered the Episcopal ball team, the pennant winners of the Church League at the Sunday school room of St. Mary's church last evening. The room was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting and Japanese lanterns. Twenty-two plates were laid, with dainty name cards and a carnation at each place. In addition to the pastor, manager and members of the team were several invited guests. The menu was elaborate and sumptuous, and was nicely served by the ladies of the congregation. Several of the invited guests paid the ladies the compliment of stating that it was the best church supper they had ever attended.

Alfred P. Stewart officiated as toastmaster when cigars were in order, and was in his happiest mood. He first called upon Umpire J. W. Mathias, who paid the Church League a compliment for the gentlemanly conduct of the players and the fast work of the teams generally. Rev. L. W. Shey, pastor of St. Mary's, told how the church league idea originated two weeks ago at a meeting of the St. Mary's Social Union for young men, and spoke of the great growth of institutional church work, of which the church league is in line.

S. C. Todd, who was one of the most assiduous fans, highly praised the work of the league and the financial success it has attained. He said that Charleroi had paid out $12,000 for professional baseball here which was a failure, but the church league presented games every bit as interesting and had money in the treasury at the close of the season.

A pleasant incident of the evening was the presentation of a beautiful

There were only three bidders for the work, Hastings and Piper, Thomas Arrigo and the Hellam Construction company. Arrigo was second lowest bidder. The grading and paving is about an $1,800 job. Council did not take up any other business.

INDICATIONS FOR LARGEST MINE OUTPUT IN HISTORY

Nearly All Mines Running Better Than at Any Time This Year and Production is Much Greater.

With the exception of possibly one of the 21st district said this morning that he thought the output this year in his district would surpass by about 2,000,000 tons that of last year when it was higher than ever before. If this prediction holds good the total output will be between 11,000,000 and 12,000,000 tons for the entire year. The 21st district stands near the head of the State districts for output and there is a possibility that it will jump into the lead this year.

Is This Bossism?

The following from the Washington Reporter is somewhat surprising, inasmuch as the Keystone party is making an issue of alleged controlled nominations in both the Republican and Democratic parties:

"The Keystone party organization completed the signing of the nomination papers for candidates on their local ticket yesterday. Some 300 signers were secured in the two days, more than are sufficient to have these names placed on the official ballot."

"The campaign committee of the Keystone party will meet in Philadelphia next Monday at which time the endorsements of candidates for this Assembly, Senatorial and Congressional district will be ratified or rejected.
As all endorsements must first pass this committee before being certified to at Harrisburg, the action of the local committees is not official."

What right has a State political committee to "ratify or reject" any local nomination? Is not this bossism of the most pronounced type? Wherein do the people have any voice in the nominations of the Keystone party, if the State bosses dictate even the local nominations? This is reform, with a big "R." The editor of the Reporter must have been caught napping when he permitted a statement like this to go through.

Whose Fault

In a speech at Wilkinsburg yesterday Clarence Gilmore, Lieutenant Governor on the Keystone ticket, bitterly arraigned the people of Philadelphia and the whole State in general for alleged political corruption that he claims prevails. He was particularly severe in his denunciation of the official rule of Philadelphia, stating that men unfit to walk the streets in any reputable town render useless the votes of decent citizens in the Quaker City.

Suppose the conditions that Mr.
Giboney describes exists in Philadelphia. Whose fault is it, and how can it be remedied? Mr. Giboney's panacea is for the voters to cast their ballots for W. H. Berry and himself for Governor and Lieutenant Governor at the fall election. Just how he proposes the chief executive of the State can remedy the alleged municipal abuse in Philadelphia, Mr. Giboney does not state, but any person of ordinary intelligence knows that the only way it can be done is by the votes of the electors of that city.

That being the case, the question naturally arises, why do the voters permit the shameful conditions that Mr. Giboney asserts to exist? Surely they have the right of franchise the same as in every other election district of the State, and the same laws safeguarding the ballot are in force in Philadelphia that are in force in Charleroi or elsewhere.
More than that, the reputable and law abiding citizens are preponderously in the majority, and have it within their power to arise at any time and control the elections as they see fit.

Can Mr. Giboney give assurance that the election of W. H. Berry and himself will give to the voters any more rights or privileges than they do not already enjoy? The voters of any community can cast their ballots and see that they are fairly counted.
If any frauds or corruption exist anywhere in the State there are ample laws by which the offenders can be brought to the bar and punished, and there are enough reputable citizens any time to see that the laws are enforced. The fact that the people are not aroused over the alleged corruption of Philadelphia is prima facie evidence that conditions are not nearly so bad as Mr. Giboney paints them. The people are content with existing conditions. If they were not they would exercise their power and change them. While there is always room for improvement, government anywhere is always what the average reputable citizen and voter wants it to be.

Gaining Ground

Although the Republican State campaign has only started, it is everywhere apparent that the candidacy of Congressman J. K. Tener for Governor is steadily gaining ground. As it progresses the quiet and dignified campaign that the State party is conducting without any mud slinging will have its effect, and the rising tide of popular approval will manifest itself at the polls in November by an overwhelming majority for the Republican ticket.

It was the same in the Gubernatorial campaign four years ago. When Governor Stuart was nominated the voice of opposition was loud and pronounced. The capitol steal had just been unearthed and the Republican administration in the State stood condemned in public opinion for the time being at least. Governor Stuart was denounced as a weakling, the choice and tool of Senator Penrose, who selected him because he could be controlled. In the western part of the State the Governor was comparatively unknown, and a bitter fight was waged against the Republican candidates.
Without comment or any mud slinging Governor Stuart and his colleagues made a dignified campaign.

They went among the people, and instead of condoning or defending the capitol steal Governor Stuart com-demned it, and promised if elected to bring the perpetrators to justice.
That he has kept his word the court and prison records of the State will show. Even the opposition at the present time does not dare to arraign Governor Stuart's administration.

It is the same way with Mr.
Tener's campaign. Wherever Mr.
Tener goes he inspires confidence.

With the Republican party more united and freer from attack than it has been any time during the past fifty years his election is assured.
Four years ago the Democrats and disaffected Republicans were united.
Now they are divided, and the Keystone party with no tangible issue on which to base a contest will, after the election, figure no more than a forgotten deuce in the discard.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

The Charleroi foreigners who in crowning a man king of their number tossed him about until he suffered a broken arm were evidently not concerned for his majesty's welfare.

Even Acheson's friends won't stand by him. They question his methods as a means of accomplishing a result.

If the hobble skirt is such an important thing that a daily paper has to give up a half column of the first page in its interests, you can imagine what kind of a sensation the hoop skirt caused in grandma's time.

Seems to us that if more of the schools taught girls how to wash dishes and how to darn socks, they would be accomplishing infinitely more good than they are doing now endeavoring to pound into their silly brains something about music, and consequently not learning them a darn thing except possibly to pronounce Tschaikowsky and such names without a double sneeze.

Another divorce case is being scandalized in New York. Its number, as near as we can remember, is 4,672, 981, during the past two months.

Before his death a Boston man told another fellow that he would permit his spirit to converse with the latter.
After his death a few days the living spiritualist said he had received word from the dead scientifically inclined individual. Any person could say that.

Country fairs will have a brief outing, after which the footballist in his fighting togs and bloody countenance will endeavor to hold the attention a while.

From the Washigton Observer editorials, it is hard to determine just what measures Mr. Acheson is trying to defend or propound.

The trouble is that Mr. Acheson can't say anything without bumping against some words of long ago.

Grim says he came to Washington to strengthen out a few things in the minds of some of his political opponents. As for some of them he never could straighten them out; they are too much warped.

Thackeray's Satire.

Thackeray created quite erroneous impressions of himself by often indulging in irony in the presence of people who were incapable of understanding it. One curious instance which he gave was this: Thackeray had been dining at the Garde, and was talking in the smoking room after dinner with various club acquaintances. One of them happening to have left his cigar case at home, Thackeray, though disliking the man, who was a notorious tuft bunter, good naturedly offered him one of his cigars. The man accepted the cigar, but, not finding it to his liking, had the bad taste to say to Thackeray, "I say, Thackeray, you won't mind my saying I don't think much of this cigar?" Thackeray, no doubt irritated at the man's ungraciousness and bearing in mind his tuft hunting predilections, quietly responded, "You ought to, my good fellow, for it was given me by a lord." Instead, however, of detecting the irony, the dolt immediately attributed the remark to snobishness on Thackeray's part and to the end of his days went about declaring that Thackeray had boasted that he had been given a cigar by a lord."

Maternal Instinct.

"Children that yell like that ought either to be gagged or kept at home," remarked the irascible gentleman with the white beard to the bus conductor.

"And faces like the one you're scarin' people with," chipped in the mother of the noisy infant, "ought to be made into door knockers or sent to the chamber o' horrors."

The gentleman with the patriarchal face fungus took a brick red complexion. "I know it's awkward at times"— he commenced.

"It's more'n awkward; it's nothin' short o' 'rrible," snapped the lady, as she once more glanced at the sorry elderly man's set of features.

When the rest of the passengers tilted audibly the old gentleman came to the conclusion that it bothered him to speak to the point.

"I mean the child"—he tried once more.

"And you didn't mean it no good," returned the lady, "else you wouldn't looked at it"—London Ideas.

The Great Master Thought No Honor Too Great For Himself.

It was Theophile Gautier who said something to the effect that if he thought that one line of the great master Victor Hugo, was bad he would not acknowledge it to himself if he were alone at the bottom of a dale.

One evening Hugo's admirers assembled in his drawing room, were competing with one another in the eulogy of his genius, and the idea was thrown out, that the street in which he lived ought to bear his name. Some one suggested that the street was too small to be worthy of so great a poet, and the honor of bearing his name ought to be assigned to some more important thoroughfare. Then they proceeded to enumerate the most popular quarters of Paris, in an ascending scale, until one man exclaimed with enthusiasm that it would be an honor for the city of Paris itself to be renamed after the man of genius. Hugo, leaning against the mantelpiece, listened complacently to these flatterers out-bidding each other. Then, with an air of one engaged in deep thought, he turned to a young man and said to him in his grand style, "Even that will come,"—Bookman.

A QUEER UNIVERSITY.

Cairo Has the World's Oldest Educational Institution.

"When we think of Harvard or Yale, the former dating from 1638 and the latter from 1701, we think of them as old universities," says a writer in the American Educational Review; "but when we pass to the other side of the world we discover that even the oldest American universities are in reality very young institutions.

"The oldest educational institution in the world is the University of El Ashar, Cairo, founded in the year 988 by the great Saladin. It is the central seat of learning for the whole Muhammadan world, as well as a fountain of spiritual life. It occupies an ancient mosque in the Arab quarter of Cairo, surrounded by a confusing maze of narrow streets where the population is made up of representatives of every race that follows the prophet.

"The old mosque covers several acres and consists of a series of courts surrounded by long cloisters with low roofs supported by forests of columns.
The floors of red tiles are covered daily by a multitude of men and boys, squatting in semicircles around their teachers, who sit with their backs to the columns lecturing in monotonous.

"The chancellor of the university is always a descendant of the prophet

ASK LOCAL ELKS TO ATTEND GAME

Swell Contest to be Pulled Off Next Saturday Between League Teams.

Invitations have been extended to the Charleroi Elks and Elks of various other towns along the valley to a baseball game to be played between the New Kensington and Tarentum teams likely on Forbes Field, Pittsburgh, on September 17. It is expected that the affair will be largely attended, and as the rivalry is intense, the contest will doubtless prove interesting. Among those who are expected to attend are Grand Exalted Ruler Harry Hermann of Cincinnati.

Later the comedian repeated the words in the right place, and when the king expressed surprise at the news Catesby folded his arms, walked boldly down the stage and remarked to the great actor in loud tones:

"I told you so before, Mr. Kean, but you wouldn't believe me."

An Interruption.

Among the primary pupils enrolled in a Baltimore school is the son of a prominent business man of that city, says Harper's Magazine. One afternoon at close of school the youngster sought out his father in his office, to whom he said:

"Dad, I'm getting tired of school. I think I'll quit."

"Why," asked the astonished parent, "what's the matter, Tommy? I thought you were fond of going to school."

"So I am, dad," responded the youngster, suppressing a yawn, "but it breaks up the day so."

Force Enjoys Corn Roast

Take Hay Ride into Country Taking Along Their Own Roasting Ears.

Taking along a quantity of fine juicy roasting corn a crowd of people mostly members of Uncle Sam's force at the local postoffice, took a hay ride into the country last night to the farm of Joseph Carson, where until some unknown time between 11 o'clock last night and daylight this morning they enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The postoffice force was at the back of the affair, and it was a jovial number that composed the crowd. Upon their arrival at the farm both the ladies and the gentlemen got to work and built a large fire. Then the process of roasting those ears began. Some corn was naturally roasted too much, or not enough, but inasmuch as there wasn't any particular person along, it didn't matter much. The real enjoyment was the eating of the corn. The festivities concluded in time to allow the post office employees time to get back to work this morning, and they didn't look very tired.

DR. DIXON DEFENDS DAIRY FARMERS

Declares Milk Often Becomes Polluted After Leaving Their Hands on Way to Consumer.

SANITARY LAWS ARE BROKEN

"Don't let's put too much blame on the farmers," says State Health Commissioner Dixon in discussing the question of a pure milk supply, a problem that is troubling so many municipalities throughout Pennsylvania.

"As an old farmer myself who has led the reapers around the wheat field, swinging a cradle and then in the evening milking my share of the cows, I am naturally favorable to the dairy farmer, but it is the close study of actual conditions that convinces me that the first disease germs often, perhaps most frequently, get into the milk after it has passed out of the farmer's control."

KING COAL.

While He Lives His Throne Is Fixed In the United States.

The part played by coal in the world's affairs can well be illustrated by assuming the available supply to be suddenly cut off. The huge railroad systems of America would stop at once. So also would the electric power and lighting in all cities and suburbs. Steamship service would cease everywhere. Transit facilities would be dead. Factories, manufacturers and shops would close down. Vast industries like steel, iron, copper, etc., would cease. Armies of laborers would be thrown out of work. Mills, schools, the navy, newspapers, foreign and internal trade—all would cease to exist. The trilogy governing commercial advance, heat, light and power, except a negligible amount of water, oil, etc., would be annihilated—all this until some other form of power could be developed. The possibility of such a cataclysm is not imminent, for coal will reign for some time yet and is destined to become a power whose capabilities have as yet been comparatively felt only more faintly than would a feather on the hide of an elephant.

The world needs coal. The United States has that coal to deliver. It will be wholly natural that so potent a necessity will make for continued peace and understanding among the powers of the world.

The coal mines of Europe are sunk about 3,000 feet deep. Coal is still being quarried on the banks of the Ohio, and the mines of Europe are nearing the limit of commercial possibility. The manufacturing supremacy of the old world is passing to the new.

Coal is king, and while he lives his throne is fixed forever in the United States.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Dairyman's Problems.
He must produce or purchase food for them, keep up the stable, pay his help, constantly replenish his supply of pails, buckets, etc., and haul this milk over all kinds of roads, through all sorts of weather and then receive for all this 4 or 4½ cents a quart from the dealer.

"The milk often begins to receive pollution on the railroad, when an attendant takes off the lid of a milk can, helps himself to a drink and then replaces the lid, drippings of milk which have reached his lips going back into the can.

Does this sound like an exaggeration? Let me cite you a case. I remember a baggagemaster who once called upon me for medical advice. I found him suffering with pulmonary tuberculosis. When I advised him to drink plenty of milk he informed me that he was drinking a great deal of it. He said he hauled milk in his baggage car and that he was in the habit of taking out of the lids of the cans.

"At the stations and along the streets the milk dealers often purchase from each other. The purchaser sticks his finger into the milk and then into his mouth to determine the sweetness and then into the second can until he

THE WAKING PROCESS.

Easy Scheme to End Your Sleep as Any Time You Wish.

"We hear it frequently asserted that persons will impress the thought deeply upon their minds and continue to do so until they have fallen asleep again, but they do not awake at a certain hour in the morning, though they have been awake at a certain hour in the evening. This is a fact, and it is true."

"But how is it possible to do this?"

"It is a simple method of training a person to sleep, sleeping at a given hour in the evening only to find that he, though he might be disturbed and wake up,

"The brain will usually remain to the last and awaken one in the morning near the desired hour under any circumstances, but to prevent the unbroken uneasy sleep the adoption of any very simple device is necessary, the last thing before getting into bed like a watch or clock and turn the hands to the hour at which one wishes to rise and gaze at this just long enough to fix the hour firmly on the retentive memory. Then if no other absorbing thoughts intervene between that and the moment one is locked in slumber the night's rest will be easy and unbroken, and promptly at the hour in the morning, as a rule, one will find oneself released from sleep and wide awake. There is no need to repeat it over and over in the mind. All this makes the brain uneasy and results in the disturbed slumber. Simplicity is the secret of success."

Take Hay Ride Into Country Taking Along Their Own Roasting Ears.

Taking along a quantity of fine juicy roasting corn a crowd of people mostly members of Uncle Sam's force at the local postoffice, took a hay ride into the country last night to the farm of Joseph Carson, where until some unknown time between 11 o'clock last night and daylight this morning they enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The postoffice force was at the back of the affair, and it was a joyful number that composed the crowd. Upon their arrival at the farm both the ladies and the gentlemen got to work and built a large fire.

Then the process of roasting, these ears began. Some corn was naturally roasted too much, or not enough, but inasmuch as there wasn't any particular person along, it didn't matter much. The real enjoyment was the eating of the corn. The festivities concluded in time to allow the post office employee time to get back to work this morning, and they didn't look very tired.

Those who are at the Sun-

Shine Doing It

"In a period of six other days," says the "Daily" in a letter to the editor, "I have across a picture of what had竈nter been a social entertainment, a baseball game."

"The Indians had won and so the sofa of seats and guests there remained in the foreground to deserted room and a waste of empty chairs, along with the open grand piano.

"The host's head was resting on his arms on table. The hostess had removed her shoes and was on the verge of collapse in the background a bul-der was looking on comiserately

"Now, there's a good deal of that:

sort of thing first and last the country over. It was true to life, but I never could understand it--that is, nobody who doesn't enjoy entertaining or being entertained persist in making war-of themselves, why anybody does something for pleasure that invariably gives pain?"

"A person who puts himself out in service however sensible and manage-she may be, she is expensive. But everything worth having has its price of one sort or another, and there are some things which cost much without which life is hardly worth living."

Said Thoms: "Most men completely make some self denial when they marry. They think they will give up such and such expensive pleasures.

Later on, when they discover that they cannot do so and at the same time they lack the means to indulge the complaint that it is the extravagance of their wives which causes the inconvenience."

Which wise saying is applicable to men in other countries besides that of France--New York American?

Reiterated.

Edmund Kean was playing in "Richard III," and the part of Kean was to be taken by a low comedian who sauntered on to the stage at the wrong moment and uttered the famous words, "My word, the Duke of Buckingham is taken," in the wrong place.

Edmund clapped his fists in rage, but otherwise took no notice of the remark.

Later the comedian repeated the words in the right place, and when the king expressed surprise at the news Catesby folded his arms, walked boldly down the stage and remarked to the great actor in loud tones

"I told you so before, Mr. Kean, but you wouldn't believe me."

An Interruption.
